The course will examine a selection of narrative and documentary films that consider social justice in relation to African American communities. Through a variety of films and related readings, students will explore and engage in a critical examination of racism and antiracism, policy initiatives, human rights, waves of activism and contemporary social movements.